Ergo Quintilium perpetuus Sopor
Urget? cui Pudor, et Justitiæ Soror,
Incorrupta Fides, nudaque Veritas,
Quando ullum invenient parem?
Multis ille bonis flebilis occidit. HOR.

AMONG the various unhappy Accidents that so frequently occur in these chequer'd Scenes of Life, there is nothing, perhaps, that more universally affects every virtuous Mind, than the sudden and unexpected Death of a Man of Ability and real Merit, who had executed some publick Trust of general Importance to the Community, with uncommon Diligence, Judgment, and Impartiality. I cannot help thinking that every Person in Philadelphia, who reads thus far, will be apt to anticipate me on this Occasion, in mentioning the Death of Mr. David Martin, late Rector of the Academy, as a strong Example of the foregoing general Observation. For, that the People of this City have met with a very great Loss in the sudden and unexpected Death of that Gentleman, is, I believe, universally allowed, and regretted by all who knew him, or heard his amiable Character, and Accomplishments for that important Trust. I call his Character an amiable One, as it really was, for he had a Sweetness of Temper, a Gentleness of Manners, so open, so honest, and so generous a Heart, with a decent and modest, yet easy, lively, and sensible Way of conducting himself on all Occasions, that he was lov'd by all (I mean all whose Love was worth having) whoever had the Pleasure of his Acquaintance. The very Children lov'd and reverenced him; and I am certain, I may very safely appeal to the whole of his Life and Actions, to the whole Circle of his Acquaintance in America, and it was very extensive, for a full Confirmation of every one of these Particulars.

This would only, I fear, revive uneasy and melancholy Reflections in those who knew him, and consequently to paint him, should I descend to a minute Detail of all those amiable Qualities that adorn'd his private Character: I shall only therefore add on this Subject, that notwithstanding the superior Knowledge he was endow'd with, his Good-natur'd Condescension render'd him an agreeable Member of all Companies: Yet polite Literature was his Sphere, and what he delighted to converse about; for he was a great Master of the Greek and Roman Authors, and had a most elegant critical Taste, which he discover'd on every proper Occasion, with that Freedom, Air, and Spirit, peculiar to well bred Men, without the least Mixture or Appearance of Pedantry. It was thus he shone in private Life, perfectly qualified as a Friend or Companion; the only Parts he had to sustain, having ever resided in a single State.

But it would be doing the utmost Injustice to the Memory of this valuable Man, as well as contrary to the present Design, to rest the Character here; we must view him then in his publick Capacity likewise; and there, I think, it will appear, how deeply the Publick is interested in the Loss sustain'd by his Death. This should have been better pleas'd, indeed, that this Task had been undertaken by some abler Hand, that the Character might have appear'd with the same Advantage from the Press, as it did, in the Sermon preach'd at his Funeral, from the Pulpit; but since at the Desire of some of his most intimate Friends it has fallen to my Share, without farther Apology, I shall endeavour to perform this last Office of a Friend in the best Manner I can.

Now this good and useful Man, seem'd to be accurated through the whole of his Life, publick and private, with a warm disinterested Love of Mankind, and an earnest Desire to promote the Happiness of his fellow Creatures, frequently too, at the Expence of his Interest, and what he lov'd far better, his Ease and Tranquility. Those who had a very good Opportunity of knowing, instruct me to assert, that there are many Instances of his having sacrificed his Interest to the distress'd Families from Ruin, while he was Speaker of Hunterdon County, in New-Jerseys, a Station which he held with Honour for the Space of thirteen or fourteen Years, during all the Divisions and Distractions of that Government. But he likewise gave up his Ease and Tranquility out of the same elevated and Godlike Motives. He had long wish'd for Retirement in some well situate Country Place, it being the Top of his Ambition to spend the Remainder of his Days in rural Happiness. How often have I heard him, with Pleasure, accommodate Passages out of the Classicks, expressive of his Wishes, and break out (for he never talk'd of it but with Rapture) into these and the like Exclamations?

O Rus! quando ego te aspiciam! HOR.
Rura mihi et rigui placeant in vallibus amnes,
Flumina amem Silvasque inglorius------
------O qui me gelidis in vallibus Hæmi
Sistat, et ingenti ramorum protegat umbra. VIRG.

Nevertheless, tho' this was his Heart's Desire, and he had actually almost compleated a Plan in order to enjoy it, yet upon understanding that the Trustees of the newly instituted Academy here were at a Loss where to find a proper Rector for it, and being applied to for the Purpose, he thought it a Pity so laudable an Undertaking should meet with any Interruption, and therefore generously gave up his projected Elysium at Sharon (the Name of his intended Villa) to engage in a Way of Life, of all others, at the Time, the most disagreeable to his natural Inclination. But he was sensible how much the Success of this useful Design would depend on its being well conducted at first, and being conscious at the same Time of his own Abilities to perform it, his longing Desire after rural Tranquility, gave Way to his ruling Passion, the Love of his Species: Tho' he often said the Change of Life would certainly kill him, as beyond all Doubt it was the predisposing Cause of that terrible Distemper of which he died. But he died nobly, and as every good Man would choose to die, that is, in the Discharge of a Duty, which Religion, the Religion of JESUS, for that was his Religion, had taught him ought to be preferr'd to his own temporal Ease and Satisfaction.

It can scarcely be doubted, I think, even after this short and imperfect Description of the Man, how well calculated a Person with such Talents, and such Dispositions, was to perform with Diligence, Judgment, and Faithfulness, all that could be expected from him as a Rector of a new Academy. And in Fact it appears by the Proficiency those who were under his Tuition have made, which in several Particulars has been examin'd into by some of the best Judges in this Place, both before and since his Death, that all this was actually done. He did not follow any one beaten Method of Teaching, but was at Pains to consult the particular Capacities of his Scholars, and from thence form'd his different Plans for instructing them. In this he show'd great Judgment, for some Youth there are of clear and quick Apprehensions, who see Things at once, as soon as they are properly laid before them; whilst others again cannot be brought to understand the same Things but by slow and gradual Steps. To follow the same Modes of Instruction therefore, in such different Capacities, and to class them promiscuously together, as is often inadvertently done, was what this judicious Instructor always blam'd, and cautiously avoided. A very little before his Death, he surpris'd a well known Judge of these Matters, with a singular Instance of the good Effects of this Sort of Management, in the following Manner. There was a little Boy who began his Latin with him, and had not yet been quite three Months under his Care. Observing this Boy's fine Parts, by the wonderful Progress he made in every Thing he set him about, he thought it would be wrong to follow the common slow Methods of teaching with him, and so had a Mind to try whether he could not make him understand an Ode in Horace. Accordingly he tried him with that famous Ode, beginning Otium Divos, &c. which he found the Boy soon made himself Master of, with very little Trouble either to himself or his Teacher. After mentioning this, and calling the Boy, he desir'd the Gentleman to examine him on that Ode, which he did very particularly, and was amaz'd at his Answers, scarcely believing it had been possible for any one so young to have made such a Proficiency in that Language in so short a Time. By this, and other Instances that might be given, the People of Philadelphia may see what they have lost by this valuable Man's Death. He was a Man who by his Abilities, by his Assiduity, by his consummate Prudence and Knowledge of the Place, seem'd to be peculiarly calculated for the particular Circumstances of this Infant Institution. In fine, he seem'd as a Blessing from Heaven on so generous a Projection for the Benefit of the rising Generation. I sincerely wish the same kind Providence may speedily supply his Place, and I doubt not but a very proper Person will soon be found for it. Yet considering the Constellation of Accomplishments, so exactly suited to the Place he fill'd, that so rarely meet in any one Man, yet all met in him, without intending to derogate from the Merits of any other Man, I must beg Leave to conclude with the Words of my Motto,

Quando ullum invenient parem?

From the Gazetteer, Sept. 19.

THO' nothing is more equivocal than the Term LOVE, yet the natural Division of it seems to be but of two Parts, Passion and Affection. When the Passion reigns, it wishes Fruition, and there usually terminates; when the Affection governs, it is generally lasting and permanent. The first has Lust; the last a kind of Softness in the Soul, for their respective Basis. Neither of these have any thing to do with Platonism, which is rather a System of Art, formed out of a whimsical Imagination, than springing from the Fountain of Nature, or pursuing its genuine Dictates; the most it pretends to is Esteem, and has the Fate, as Horace says upon another Occasion, to be laugh'd at by the Ladies; * while Love, as it appears a Passion, is too often attended, as the same Author writes, by the little mischievous Urchin's sharpening his Darts on a Stone wet with Blood. † But where Love rules as an Affection, it has the Graces and the Muses for its Attendants; and charms and animates, blends and interchanges Souls.

Platonism, however founded in Whim, must have a Kind of social Virtue for its Guard against being tempted into the Passion of Love; but as this is a System which we may either term unnatural, or too refined for Practice, it generally, if not always, terminates in what one End of our Being designs it should; it has the trite Resemblance of the Moth playing in the Flame of a Candle, and has only a Sense in it, when it carries a purposed Intention of moral joyous Consequences.

Those who have entered into a Spirit of Nature, often turn their Genius this Way, as they have only to observe what Road the Female Passion takes, and to fall in with it, to be sure of where all must center: For as the Ladies judge very rightly, that they were not intended as the mere Objects of Imagination, so if a Man once courts them under the Character of Friendship, they are sensible that a very little more will make him a Husband.

Love, as a Passion, is generally produced at first Sight, and then it enters at the Eyes, and sometimes effects its Purposes by a single Glance. But as an Affection, it has its Foundation in the Mind and Judgment, is governed by Reason, instructed by sober Reflection, and confirmed by Honesty. It has nothing about it wild or romantick; neither has it of Art, or the common Mummery of Mankind. Fancy may change, Interest vary, and new Objects produce different Reflections; but where Minds are united, the Bond is, as near as in the Constitution of the human Frame it can be, indissoluble.

BRISTOL, September 7.

ON the 26th of August, the Dwelling [illegible] of Mr. Webb, Maltster, on St. Michael's Middle [illegible] this City, was beset by some Rogues in [illegible]rvant-Night, but being over-heard by his [illegible]her thought aged about Eighteen, who called o[illegible]ver, the Boy proper for that Time to sheer off; [illegible]cause they should provided himself with Fi[illegible] give them a warm Reception. make another Visit, to [illegible]e ; for on Monday last, And well was it that [illegible] about One a Clock in the [illegible]orning, he was awakened by some Persons whistling; and hearing a Noise in the Garden, he immediately got up, dress'd himself, and came into the Ga[illegible]en, with a Piece in his Hand; where he saw three Men endeavouring to break into one of the Window[illegible] with Bludgeons in their Hands. Upon which he ask'[illegible] them, What Business they had there? And said, That if they did not immediately leave leave the Place, he would blow their Brains out. Then one of the Fellows, without making any Reply, ſtruck at him with his Bludgeon, but fortunately miſs'd him; on which the Lad fired the Piece at them, and immediately one of them dropt down ſuppoſed to be ſhot in the Head) and ſaid: D---n him, he has killed me. The ſecond called to his other Companion, to come and help him to carry off the wounded Perſon, ſaying: By G---d, he has ſhot me thro' the Arm. And thereupon they took him up by the Hams, after wrapping his Head up in one of the Flaps of their Coats, carry'd him over the Garden-Wall, and ſo made off undiſcover'd, the Boy not thinking it ſafe to follow them.

The next Day he made an Information of the above Affair, before the Right Worſhipful James Laroche, Eſq; Mayor; and ſtrict Search is making after the Offenders.

LONDON, Sept. 4.

On Monday two young Gentlemen, on a Wager, endeavoured to out-drink each other with Cherry-Brandy; and one of them, who had drank near three Quarts, was ſuddenly taken ill, and died Yeſterday at his Lodgings, near Temple-Bar; the other is ſo bad, that there are little Hopes of his Recovery.

Sept. 26. We are adviſed from Durham, that laſt Week, as a Gentleman was riding to Darlington, he was attacked by two Men, who had the Appearance of Gentlemen, in a Poſt-Chaiſe, with two Livery Servants riding behind the ſame; on his coming up with them, they jumped out, and demanded all his Money, upon which he gave them Five Guineas; they took it, and told him if they found any more on examining his Pockets, they would blow his Brains out directly: he then gave them about Five more, which was all he had about him, and then they rode off for Darlington. The Gentleman purſued as faſt as he could, and found when he came they were gone Southward about a Quarter of an Hour before his Arrival.

October 1. Yeſterday Morning a poor Fellow was defrauded of his Watch and Twelve Shillings, by the Gamblers, near Black Mary's Hole, where they continue ſo numerous as to intimidate all Perſons paſſing by from giving any Hint of their Villainy. A Gentleman who could not forbear ſtopping on hearing the Lamentations of the above poor Fellow when he found himſelf cheated, receiv'd a Blow on his Head, and was order'd to go about his Buſineſs, which he was oblig'd to comply with.

October 2. Yeſterday a Tradeſman near St. James's, being jealous of another, challeng'd him to decide the Affair by Sword in Hyde-Park, but thinking better of it before the appointed Time, he thought proper to change the Place and Time to Weſtminſter-Hall, next Term, to be there determined by Seconds without Bloodſhed.

Dublin, Sept. 24. Laſt Sunday the Liberty Rioters aſſembled at Kilmainham, where they were receiv'd and attack'd in a very warm Manner by the Smiths of that Place, who had prepar'd Swords and Fire-Arms for their Reception. Both Sides fought deſperately, and two on the Liberty Side, one of whom was lately whipt for Rioting, were ſo terribly wounded, that they are ſince dead; and ſeveral others had their Hands cut off, and were otherwiſe very much bruiſed. One of the Smiths was ſhot dead on the Spot.

THE POST-OFFICE for receiving and delivering Letters, is remov'd up Market-ſtreet, a little above the Priſon, on the oppoſite Side of the Way: But the PRINTING-OFFICE (Franklin and Hall) continues near the Jerſey Market, where the Gazettes are deliver'd, and Books and Stationary ſold as uſual.

N. B. Advertiſements for the GERMAN and ENGLISH GAZETTE, printed at Lancaſter by MILLER and HOLLAND, are taken in at the Poſt-Office.

III. THE Workman's GOLDEN RULE, for drawing and working the Five Orders in architecture. Wherein their pedeſtals, columns, entablatures, impoſts, and arches, are taken from the beſt examples of the antients, and proportioned by equal parts, in a more conciſe, accurate, and eaſy manner, than has been done in any Language. For the inſtruction of apprentices and journeymen maſons, bricklayers, carpenters, joiners, carvers, turners, painters, plaiſterers, cabinet-makers, &c. (and ſuch maſters) who are unacquainted with ſo much architecture, as is neceſſary for them to underſtand, in their reſpective profeſſions; and others, who deſire a juſt knowledge in that noble art. By B. LANGLEY, architect. Price bound 1s. 6d. Sterling.

IV. A New General ENGLISH DICTIONARY: peculiarly calculated for the uſe and improvement of ſuch as are unacquainted with the learned languages. Wherein the difficult words and technical terms made uſe of, in anatomy, architecture, arithmetick, algebra, aſtronomy, botany, chymiſtry, divinity, gardening, grammar, hawking, heraldry, hiſtory, horſemanſhip, hunting, huſbandry, law, logick, mathematicks, mechanicks, military affairs, muſick, navigation, painting, poetry, rhetorick, ſculpture, ſurgery, &c. are not only fully explained, but accented on their proper ſyllables, to prevent a vicious pronounciation; and marked with initial letters, to denote the part of ſpeech to which each word particularly belongs.

To which is prefix'd, a compendious Engliſh Grammar, with general rules for the ready formation of one part of ſpeech from another; by the due application whereof, ſuch as underſtand Engliſh only, may be able to write as correctly and elegantly, as thoſe who have been ſome years converſant in the Latin, Greek, &c. languages.

Together with a Supplement of the proper names of the moſt noted Kingdoms, provinces, cities, towns, rivers, &c. throughout the known world: As alſo, of the moſt celebrated emperors, kings, queens, prieſts, poets, philoſophers, generals, whether Jewiſh, Pagan, Mahometan, or Chriſtian; but more eſpecially ſuch as are mentioned either in the Old or New Teſtament. The whole alphabetically digeſted, and accented in the ſame method, and for the ſame purpoſe, as the preceding part; being collected for the uſe of ſuch, as have but an imperfect idea of the Engliſh orthography.

Originally begun by the late Rev. Mr. THOMAS DYCHE, ſchoolmaſter of Stratford-le-Bow, author of the Guide to the Engliſh Tongue, the Spelling Dictionary, &c. And now finiſhed, by WILLIAM PARDON, Gent.

The SIXTH EDITION, with the addition of the ſeveral market-towns in England and Wales; giving a general deſcription of the places, their ſituations, market-days, government, manufactures, number of repreſentatives ſent to parliament, diſtance from London, both in computed and meaſur'd miles, &c. Price 6s. Sterling.

V. A New and Compendious SYSTEM of PRACTICAL ARITHMETICK: Wherein the doctrine of whole numbers, and fractions, both vulgar and decimal, is fully explained, and applied to the ſeveral rules or methods, of calculation, uſed in trade and buſineſs; and by ſhewing and comparing the natural dependance upon, and agreement of, one rule with another, the whole is rendered more eaſy than heretofore, and the learner is inſtructed in the vulgar and decimal operations together, which at the ſame time demonſtrates the reaſon as well as the practice of both by WILLIAM PARDON, Gent. price 4s. 6d. Ster.

RIPEN, September 15.

IN the Night between the 10th and 11th of this Month, a furious Storm aroſe at South-Weſt, which came round the next Morning to the North-Weſt. The Sea ran ſo very high, that the whole Town, as well as the adjacent Country, was under Water from 4 in the Morning, till 9 at Night, and the Storm ſo furious, that we frequently expected that the Houſes would be torn from their Foundations, and carried away. In the ſucceeding Night the Wind ſunk, and the Water likewiſe. On the 12th the Wind aroſe again, but not ſo violent as the Day before; we ſaw on every Side, Veſſels break to Pieces or overſet, ſome of which were carried very far within Land, and were left there upon the Ebb. The Damage done to our Buildings and Dykes is very conſiderable, and divers Ships of ſeveral Nations, have been wreck'd, during the boiſterous Weather.

Cologn, October 4. Letters from Upper Auſtria adviſe, that there lately happen'd at Ottenſheim, a little Town about a Mile from Lintz, a terrible Fire, whereby 110 Houſes, and the Church, were reduced to Aſhes.

Lyons, Sept. 23. By Letters from Provence we are informed, that great Part of the Foreſts, ſituate between the River Var and Toulon, which is near thirty Leagues, have lately been deſtroy'd by Fire, to the very great Loſs, not only of the Owners thereof, but even to Commerce, as it has made Wood very dear in all the neighbouring Countries: How this unfortunate Accident happened no one could tell, but it is generally believed that it was done on Purpoſe by ſome ill minded People.

Paris, Sept. 30. It is aſſur'd, that the 21ſt Inſtant is the Day fix'd for celebrating the Marriages of the young Women which had Portions given them upon the Birth of the Duke of Burgundy.

The Debtors in the Chatelet have, to their poor Ability, celebrated the Royal Birth, with Fireworks and Illuminations. There was a Wit among them (which is not without a Precedent) who happily adapted the Inſcription to their Circumſtances; one was, Fidem mutata Vincula mutant; i. e. Our Loyalty is ſtill the ſame; the other, Gaudet & ipſe Dolor, Amidſt our Sufferings we rejoyce.

The Duke de Belle-Iſle at Metz has out-topp'd all that has been done on this Occaſion; he gave a Dinner to the whole Garriſon, conſiſting of 8000 Men, allowing each private Man a Pound and a Half of Meat, the due Quantity of Bread, and a Pint of good bodied Wine, and they were regularly ſeated at Horſe-ſhoe Tables. The Officers were treated with a Sumptuouſneſs proportionable to their Rank; and in the Evening there was a ſurpriſing Firework, a Feaſt and Ball, where the Perſons of Rank of both Sexes were entertained with the utmoſt Profuſeneſs and Magnificence. The Biſhop of the City gave a plentiful Meal to Fifteen-hundred poor People at his Palace, and deſigns to give Fortunes to ſeveral poor Maidens.

Five Ships are arrived at Rouen, with Corn from Amſterdam, where they left ſeveral others taking in the ſame Lading for the ſame Port; and above double that Number are expected from England, with the ſame valuable Commodity.

Vienna, Oct. 2. It is ſaid a Reſolution has been taken to keep 30,000 Imperial Troops on Foot in Bohemia, for enabling this Court to be always ready to fulfil its Engagements with that of Ruſſia. Her Imperial Majeſty has ſent Orders to the Commanding Officers of her Forces quartered on the Frontiers of Hungary, bordering on the Dominions of the Grand Signior, to cauſe the Troops under their Command immediately to form a Line, in order to prevent the Plague, which rages pretty much in ſome of the neighbouring Provinces, being brought into her Dominions.

Paris, Oct. 7. Our laſt Letters from Leige adviſe, that the Proteſtants had aſſembled at Maeſtricht, and were from off the Catholick Church the Bull of the Jubilee, and had burnt it. The States having forbidden the Catholicks from making Proceſſions, had impriſoned the Curate of Wick in the Tower of St. Peter, for having diſobey'd this Prohibition. It is aſſured, that the Prince Biſhop of Leige is reſolved to have Satisfaction for this laſt Affair, and has ſent an Expreſs for that purpoſe to the Hague, and to Paris.

Berlin, Oct. 5. The laſt Poſt from Sileſia, has brought Advice of a dreadful Fire, that happened a few Days ago at Sulau, whereby the greateſt Part of that Town has been reduced to Aſhes, together with the Church of the Evangelicks, and ſome other Buildings of Note. According to ſome Accounts, there is not a Houſe left ſtanding; but all agree, that no Lives have been loſt in this Calamity, though the People are reduced to the greateſt Diſtreſs, few of them having ſaved any of their Effects.

Leghorn, Sept. 12. We hear that the ChriſtianMerchants eſtabliſhed at Santa Crocia and Saphi, after a great Buſtle at the Court of the Emperor of Morocco, obtained a Letter to the Daniſh Ambaſſador, deſiring that the Daniſh Company would take off all the Merchandize and Effects of the ſaid Merchants, and likewiſe what was due to them in the Country; or, inſtead thereof, permit them to remain there 'till they had diſpoſed of their Effects, and recovered their Debts: But that the Ambaſſador, regardleſs of this Letter, ſignified to them that they muſt ſell their Effects within the Space of Forty Days, and then quit the Port immediately.

P. S. We are juſt now informed, that the Daniſh Miniſter has been prevailed upon to give them a little longer Time, and that after the Expiration of the Term he has now fix'd, they can neither diſpoſe of any Effects, or receive any Debts due to them in that Country.

LONDON.

October 8. We hear that the Mathematical Inſtrument-makers are likely to have a great Call for Rules and Compaſſes on Account of a certain new Regulation; as ſcarcely any of the Traders concerned in it have learned at School to make Letters exceeding Half an Inch in Length.—Hence we ſee the Excellency and Neceſſity of that Paſſage in Scripture, where a Prophet is commanded to write in Characters ſo large, that he that runneth may read; by which happy Contrivance an Officer may truſt his viſual Faculties, and ſwear, if there be Occaſion, that he has ſeen a Thing with his own Eyes, which he could not in Conſcience do, if the Inſcription was ſo ſmall as to oblige him to uſe Spectacles.

To-Day's Advices from Conſtantinople, dated Sept. 4. N. S. mention the Plague's raging there to ſuch a Degree, as to render the Miſery and Calamity of the Inhabitants inexpreſſible, through the Want of almoſt every Neceſſary of Life, &c. 'Tis computed that upwards of 300,000 Perſons have been carried off by that Diſtemper.

Some Time ago one of our Captains in the City Militia, aged 70, who has an Eſtate of about 200 l. per Ann. having ſome Words with his Son, who wanted his Father's Money, and was upbraiding him that he never gave him any Thing, when the old Man told him, in a great Pett, he had given him a Horſe, &c. and immediately, to be revenged on his Son, calls to his Servant, a Girl about Nineteen, and bid her follow him, which ſhe did, when the old Man went and married her directly.—The Son, in return for this raſh Proceeding, brought his Horſe the next Morning to his Father's Houſe, cut the poor Creature's Throat, and left him dead at the Door.

Some private Letters from Berlin intimate, that in another Poſt or two we may expect to hear of the Concluſion of an Alliance of the utmoſt Conſequence between two conſiderable Courts of Europe.

October 10. The old Treaty of Commerce, which the Dutch were ſo deſirous of renewing with France, expired on the firſt Inſtant; but has been prolong'd by the Favour of his moſt Chriſtian Majeſty for the Space of ſix Months, in Hopes that, within this Period, a new Treaty may be concluded, and nothing happen on either Side inconſiſtent with that perfect Harmony and good Underſtanding which he wiſhes may ever ſubſiſt between the Crown of France and the Republick.

In a private Letter from Edinburgh we have the following remarkable Story which happened there: An old Woman, who was reputed a Miſer, being very anxious to know how her Effects would be diſpoſed of after her Death, provided ſhe ſhould not make a Will, fell upon a Scheme of counterfeiting Death. She communicated the Secret to her Maid, who readily embraced it, and gave it out that ſhe was dead; the Apparatus being finiſhed, a great many Relations aſſembled, who had waited impatiently for her Death, and began to talk very freely about her Affairs, one claiming one Thing, and another another, 'till at laſt her Patience being quite exhauſted, ſhe could no longer contain her Rage at hearing her Effects diſpoſed of contrary to her Inclination, and roſe up immediately, telling them, ſhe ſhould prevent their Deſign by making a Will, which produced ſo terrible a Conſternation in the Company, that ſome ſcream'd out, and others fainted away.

October 12. From Madrid we hear, that the King of Spain has engaged in his Service for a conſiderable Penſion, a Native of England, very expert in the Conſtruction of Ships, and given him Orders to build twelve Men of War of different Rates, with all poſſible Diligence. They add, that this Engliſhman had already finiſhed a ſixty Gun Ship, and a Packet Boat of eight Guns, both which were launch'd at Ferrol in the Beginning of ſaid Month.

In the Hague Gazette of the 18th Inſtant, we find the following Paragraph dated from Breſt, October 3. "The Squadron that ſailed ſome Months ſince from our Port under the Command of M. Perrier, is expected back forthwith; and we are aſſured, that immediately after its Return, another of much the ſame Force, which is now fitting out here, will put to Sea; but it is pretended that this will not proceed farther than the other, there being no other Deſign in ſending it out than to exerciſe the Seamen.

According to private Letters from Hambourg, an important Queſtion is to come under Conſideration in the Dyet of Sweden, viz. Whether it is conſiſtent with the Dignity of a free Nation to ſuffer any foreign Power to intermedale in their Domeſtick Affairs? And if in Treaties with Foreigners there be contradictory Clauſes, whether a Renewal of ſuch Treaties, with Omiſſion of the ſaid Clauſes, may not be demanded?

Extract of a Letter from Poole, Sept. 23.

"Tueſday laſt arrived the Molly, Watts, from Hamburgh, who confirms the melancholy News of the Damage done in that Country, by the overflowing of the River Elbe, with the Addition, that the Water on the Bar was 16 or 18 Feet higher than uſual at the higheſt Tides, and that Boats might be rowed in every Street in Hamburgh, ſo that the Damage ſuſtained by the Inhabitants is prodigious; and this Day the Chatfiele, Reed, arrived from Ditto, who likewiſe confirms it."

Extract of a Letter from Paris, October 8.

"By the laſt Ships arrived from India, we have receiv'd a circumſtantial Journal of all that has paſſed at Pondicherry, ſince the Defeat of the Nazerſingue, and the Elevation of Mouzaferzingue to the Throne of Golconda. This Journal concludes thus:—— Mouzaferzingue's Liberality extended to every one, during the ſhort Stay he made here (Pondicherry). He gave 400,000 Rupees to our Troops, and aſſigned Penſions to the principal Officers and Counſellors on the Revenues of the Provinces; the Churches and the Poor have alſo felt the Effects of his Generoſity and Gratitude for the great Service done him by Mr. Dupleix. This Event has procured immenſe Riches to the Inhabitants of this City, and the Benefit of it will be felt theſe many Years. The Company's preſent Advantages, in Point of Trade, are ſolidly ſecured by the Donation of the City of Mazulipatan, the Iſland of Divi, and their Dependencies."

Extract of a Letter from Plymouth, October 4.

"Since my laſt came in the Warren, Thompſon Maſter, of and for London from Barbados, by whom we have Advice, that the French in the Weſt-Indies are ſtill doing what intelligent Men have all along apprehended, notwithſtanding ſome occaſional Reports to the contrary: In ſhort, inſtead of making the leaſt Diſpoſitions towards evacuating the Neutral Iſlands, they were daily ſending more People thither, and raiſing new Fortifications.

The Induſtry, of Drogheda, from Nantz for London, William Henry, Maſter, is put in here, and brings Advice, That ſix Sail of Men of War, all Capital Ships, are fitting out at Breſt, and that the Lieutenant of one of them had been at Nantz, to levy the Quota of Sailors to be furniſhed by that Port towards manning the Squadron, which as the Maſter of the Induſtry heard, is deſtined for the Coaſt of Guinea:—And if his Intelligence be right in this Point, then we muſt conclude that the Squadron which ſail'd from Breſt in July laſt, is gone to the Eaſt-Indies

BOSTON.

Decem. 23. By Capt. Waldo, from Kingſton in Jamaica, we are informed, that the Day before he ſail'd, a Bermuda built Sloop from New York, was towed in there by a Veſſel from St. Kitts, the Maſter, and moſt of the Men having been waſhed over-board and drowned; but Captain Waldo does not remember the Maſter's Name.

Dec. 30. About 3 a Clock last Tuesday Morning, in a violent Snow Storm, the Ship Bumper, Capt. Cuffens, bound hither from London, but last from Halifax, was drove on the Rocks near Pull-in-Point, and bilged The Men, 14 or 15 in Number, got ashore in their Boat, tho' very wet, and much fatigued, and afterwards with great Difficulty, all travelled to the first House they could find, except Mr. Mason, a Passenger, who was so overcome with the Cold, &c. that he died on the Beach. Capt. Cuffens and several of the People are much froze and bruized, but 'tis hoped they will all do well.

The same Morning about 7 a Clock, Capt Morton, in a Sloop coming in from Halifax, had the Misfortune to run upon the Rocks, near Cape Anne, by which Accident the Sloop is lost, but the People, 33 in Number, Passengers included, happily escaped with their Lives, and were kindly assisted and entertained by the People on Shore.

NEW-PORT, on Rhode-Island, Dec. 13.

On Monday last, an Indian Man, supposed to be drunk, going on board a Sloop which lay at a Wharff, fell between the Vessel and Wharff, and was drowned.

NEW-YORK, January 6.

Our River is full of Ice. Several Vessels on sailing have been detain'd for a considerable Time, 'till Saturday last, and, with the rest of our Shipping, squeez'd into Rotten-Row for Shelter. It was a happy Turn, the Corporation acted with that Prudence, in not consenting to the Views of a few Self-interested People, to get that only Place for Shelter of our Shipping fill'd up.

Saturday last arrived Capt. Bennet in a Sloop in 51 Days from Jamaica; he had been a considerable Time beating on our Coast.

The same Day, Capt. Shoals came up from Sandy-Hook.

Capt. Bruen in a Sloop from North-Carolina, got thro' the Narrows, but was afterwards carried back by a Cake of Ice, and we hear since got ashore on Staten-Island.

Jan. 13. By a Letter from Jamaica, we are informed, that the Sloop Freemason, Capt. Perkins, who sail'd from hence the 16th of August last, overset on the 5th of September following; by which Misfortune, Capt. Perkins and three others were drowned: The rest of the Crew remained on the Vessel until the 26th of October, in great Distress, being often obliged to drink their own Urine, when they were happily met with by Capt. Corlop, who tow'd them into Jamaica.

On Wednesday Evening last, we had here a pretty bright Appearance of the Aurora-Borealis, or Northern Twilight. Its first Appearance between seven and eight a Clock, was of a dark red; its Extension was larger than from N. E. to N. W. and afterwards grew whiter; and a little after 9 a Clock, look'd in the N. W. like Day Break.

Saturday last our River and Bay seem'd almost clear of Ice, but it froze so intensely on Saturday Night, as to admit a double Sledge to come over the River from Long-Island, on Sunday Afternoon, and return back again; several People had the Curiosity to walk a cross the River on the Ice; but by the falling of the Tide, about 5 a Clock, the Ice parted from both Sides, and several People being on at the same Time, were obliged to be taken off by Boats.

Last Week a young Woman was committed to Goal for stealing wearing Apparel, to a considerable Value, out of the House of Mr. William Pairtree Smith. She got into the House in the Dusk of the Evening, and concealed herself under a Bed, 'till the Family were asleep, when she perpetrated her Design, and not only took Things more valuable, but even the poor Servant Maid's Cloaths that she pull'd off when she went to Bed.

Custom-House, New York, Enter'd Inwards, January 6. and 13.

Sloop Mary, Willet Taylor from Turk-Islands. Sloop Two Brothers, William Wimble from Nova-Scotia. Sloop R. Island, R. Bennet from Jamaica. Outwards. Brig Elizabeth, Josias Smith for Coracoa. The AMERICAN COUNTRY ALMANACK, For the Year 1752. By THOMAS MOORE.

MR. DOVE, Engliſh Profeſſor at the Academy, finding his former houſe too little for the number of his boarders, has taken Rock-hall, which is ſituated in a wholſome air very near the Academy, and moſt commodiouſly adapted for the reception of young gentlemen at board, waſhing and lodging. The great advantages that children will receive from their living with a maſter, may eaſily appear from this conſideration; That as they will be always under his inſpection, he will have a better opportunity of diſcovering their different inclinations and humours, of forming their manners, and correcting their language and writing. Beſides which, care will be taken, to inſtruct them morning, noon and night, in ſeveral uſeful books, by way of recreation, which are not taught in the public ſchool.

N. B. Said Dove, if deſired, will at leiſure hours inſtruct any of his boarders in the Greek, Latin, or French Grammar, without any additional expence to their parents or friends.

The PENNSYLVANIA GAZETTE.

Containing the Freſheſt Advices, Foreign and Domeſtick.

From the FOOL.

WHEN we conſider Man in the Light of a reaſonable Creature, bleſſed with a diſtinguiſhing Faculty, and formed to think and reflect, we naturally conclude, that all his Views and Purſuits are adapted to the great End of his Creation. On the other Side, when we conſider him formed with Paſſions and Appetites like the brute Species, and which his Rationality ſeems purely given him to regulate and correct, we are not at all ſurpriſed, if, through a Variety of Occurrences, he ſometimes falls into the worſt Extreme, and leſſens his natural Value.

When Men come to be thus unhappy, they improve one Evil upon another. They call the brutal Part of their Nature, and either baniſh the Rational, or make it the Slave of the Brutal, by furniſhing Argument thereto to juſtify their Paſſions and Vices. Thus the two great Extremes, which were intended by Nature to co-operate together, and thereby form a happy Medium, are either directly contraſted, or the beſt rendered wholly ſubſervient to the worſt.

From this unhappy Turn of Thinking, or rather Abſence of Thought, ſpring all the Miſeries and Misfortunes to which human Nature is liable. Since it is impoſſible for any Man to really think, and not at the ſame time evidently perceive, that out of unregulated Paſſions grows every Evil. Hence we ſee Eſtates ſquandered away, Diſeaſes abound, Minds diſtempered, and the whole Soul tortured and agonized; the Man loſt, and ſomething worſe than the Brute conſtituted in its ſtead.

There are various Species of Vice, which contribute to produce this undeſirable Change; this Deviation from the Intent of Nature; as Gaming, Drinking, Debauchery, Luxury in Diet, &c. If People only play for Diverſion, it may poſſibly be an innocent Amuſement; but when it becomes Habit, we know of no Evil that produces worſe Conſequences; while it makes us covetous, it is apt to render us diſhoneſt; Induſtry and ſocial Purſuits thence fly before us; the Mind is eternally tortured; we are ſtaking our Eſtates, Peace, and Happineſs, againſt a Dream; and embracing a Cloud for Juno.

The Drinking at proper Times a chearful Glaſs, may act as an Alterative on ſome Conſtitutions; clear the Head, and exhilirate the Spirits; but, abuſed into a Habit, renders us dull, ſtupid, and uſeleſs: Thence we forget our Exiſtence as Men, and degenerate into a Being for which we know not a juſt Parallel.

Unreſtrained Freedom with Women is attended by ſuch a Train of Evils, as are difficult to be recounted within the narrow Limits of this Paper: Our Health, Time, and Reaſon, are all ſacrificed at once to this Vice; and while we are purſuing imaginary Delights, we loſe the very Thing we aim at, and are puniſhed for being cheated. The Hand of the Phyſician carries off the roſy Bloom of our Countenances, debaſes our natural Appearances, and turns us into walking Statues: The Fair, the Young, and Virtuous, pity and avoid us; while the very Wretches, with whom we have ſo filthy aſſociated, deſpiſe and contemn us. The Soul is, perhaps, tainted beyond this Life; and if there was no future State, we are very aſſiduous to make ourſelves a Hell here, by ſacrificing all the reaſonable Pleaſures and Enjoyments of this World, to one of the moſt fooliſh and fatal Purſuits we are capable of following; becauſe every Man will find, that the moderate Love of Women ſooths, ſoftens, and leſſens all our Cares, and carries Joy with it to the Grave; while the inconſiderate Abuſe acts juſt the contrary, and furniſhes us with nothing but Pain, Miſery, and Repentance.

All Vices are a Kind of Sicklineſs in Nature, and rarely purſued in full Health and Vigour. Bad Company may produce bad Habits, and thoſe bad Health; but, generally ſpeaking, a Kind of Green ſickneſs on the Mind or Body, owing to Want of Activity and Exertion, is uſually the Fountain of Error. Drinking is to conſtitute artificial Spirits, and unnatural Gaiety. Variety of Women, and Luxury in Diet, the Subſtitutes of abſent Appetites. The Truth of this is evident to the unhappy Victims, and to thoſe who are yet free, it is beſt they are never convinced. England is one of thoſe Countries ſo highly bleſt by Providence, and ſo indifferently cultivated, as even to furniſh Materials for an Exceſs of Luxury; but, when the natural Appetite becomes ſo depraved as to reliſh nothing our Climate affords, all the Corners of the Earth are to be ranſacked, for Means purely to keep us alive; while Health and Vigour is ſtaring the luxurious Man in the Face, and, in the Character of the Fox-hunter, or Plowman, Drolly bantering him with Beef and Pudding, roſy Looks, and wholeſome Ale, he is pining over the Leg of an Ortelan, or gloating on a Truffle or Morel, picked out of a Perigord Pie; even the fine red-legged Partridges, which compoſe the principal Part of this dear delicious Diſh, lie ſolitary and untouched; the Man dines as it were in a Dream; and, thus ſurrounded with Dainties, is ſtarved in the midſt of Plenty. Men of this Turn are in the State of Virgil's Damned, as they appear deſcribed in the Sixth Book of the Æneids:

——Lucent genialibus altis, &c.

Thus tranſlated by Dryden.

They lie below, on golden Beds diſplay'd,
And genial Feaſts in regal Pomp are made.
The Queen of Furies by their Side is ſat,
And ſnatches from their Mouths the untaſted Meat.
Which when they touch, her hiſſing Snakes ſhe rears;
Toſſes her Torch, and thunders in their Ears.

Eumenes is one of the higheſt Inſtances of this Folly the Age has produced, and has contrived what to eat ſo long, as not now to be able to eat at all. The Fumes of Delicacy have clouded his Brain, and the Expence waſted his Eſtate. He is reduced to ſuch a terrible Dilemma, as nothing can retrieve, but being tranſported above the Clouds, there to be fed with Æther. People who philoſophiſe, ſay, they are in Doubt which is the worſt Situation, to have an Appetite ruined by Satiety, or to have an Appetite, and want Victuals. I have not Room to enter into the Argument, but am very clear, that the honeſt Labourer who can get coarſe Food, and devours it heartily, is in a much better Situation than either of them; and he who is bleſt with a fine Fortune, and lives according to Reaſon, ſtill beſt of all.

Alcibiades has Wit enough to ſerve half a Dozen common Men, but never had common Senſe enough to anſwer the great Purpoſes of a reaſonable Creature; with all his fine Underſtanding, is the Dupe of Luxury, and the Bubble of Sharpers: While Evander, who is ſuppoſed not to have more Senſe than his Neighbours, lives and triumphs in all the rational Pleaſures a right Judgment is capable of enjoying. A Table noble, but frugal; a Family finely educated, and a ſmiling Serenity ſpreading itſelf around; all calm, ſweet, and happy, free from uneaſy Cares, created by bad Reflections on thoughtleſs Hours miſpent. No indigeſted Fumes diſturb his Nights Repoſe, nor wakes he in the Morning, but to new Delight. Thus, without too much Senſe to be a Fool, lives the wiſe Evander: Many go thro' Life tolerably, ſome with Applauſe; but Thou art Wiſdom's Darling.

ROME, September 25.

THE Pope returning a few Days ago from the Liberian Baſilick to the Quirinal, a Man of the meaner Claſs kneeled down by his Coach, as it were to receive the Benediction; but while his Holineſs ſtretched out his Hand to give him a Bleſſing, the Fellow flung a Stone at the Pontiff's Head, which however miſſed him, the Holy Father having ſuddenly ſtarted back at the Motion of the Man's Arm. All the Spectators fell upon the poor Wretch, and handled him very roughly notwithſtanding all the Signs made by the Pope to ſpare him. He was afterwards carried to the Guard Houſe of the Quirinal, where it ſoon appeared that he was out of his Senſes, and that he made his Eſcape the ſame Day from the Madhouſe: Upon which his Holineſs order'd him to be carried thither, and that more Care be taken for the future, to prevent ſuch Eſcapes.

They write from Foligno, that a Capuchin there having preached with great Vehemence againſt the general Corruption of Manners, and particularly expatiating upon the bad Example, which People of Diſtinction ſet to thoſe of inferior Rank, Count Vitteleſchi, who lives at Foligno, was extremely offended at the Liberty taken by the Preacher; and imagining himſelf particularly aim'd at, went to the Convent which the Capuchin belong'd to, in order to kill him: The Capuchin finding a violent Man loading him with Reproaches, and falling upon him Sword in Hand, told the Count, without any ſeeming Emotion, that Death was what he was not under the leaſt Apprehenſion about. The Count being Thunder ſtruck at ſo uncommon an Inſtance of Reſolution, left the Capuchin without doing him any Hurt, and a few Hours after went off, and has not ſince been heard of. Upon this Advice, the Pope has order'd the Governor of Foligno to confiſcate the Effects of Count Vitteleſchi, becauſe, though he did not put in Execution his Deſign of killing the Capuchin, he was nevertheleſs guilty of a high Offence, both againſt Church and State, by inſulting a Preacher, who, in cenſuring Vice, did nothing more than diſcharge the Duty of his Office.

LONDON.

September 10. We hear from Wells, that laſt Week the Tide left on the Right Hon. the Earl of Leiceſter's Liberty at Holkham, a large Fiſh, ſuppoſed to weigh three Ton Weight, twenty-ſeven Feet and a Half long, and about eight Feet thick; the Seamen of Wells, who have been at the Whale Fiſhery, ſay it is neither a Whale nor Grampus, nor do they at preſent know what Fiſh it is.

Some publick ſpirited People have made a Computation, that if one Half of the Money annually won and loſt in fooliſh Wagers, was employed in beſtowing Premiums for the Improvement of Sciences, Arts, and Manufactures, it could not poſſibly fail of producing inexpreſſible Advantages; amongſt which, encouraging Induſtry, relieving the Poor, and reviving a laudible Appetite for Fame, would be none of the leaſt.

We learn from Peterſbourg, that ſome foreign Merchants having repreſented to the Council of Commerce, the convenient Situation of the Port of Archangel, for carrying on the Whale and other Fiſheries, from which Train Oyl is produced, and offering, on certain Terms, to ſet thoſe Fiſheries on Foot, their Propoſal has been extremely well receiv'd.

Sept. 30. His Majeſty has appointed the following General Officers to be upon the ſtaff in Ireland, viz. Right Hon. Lord Viſcount Moleſworth, Commander in Chief. Right Hon. the Earl of Rothes, Lieutenant-general. Right Hon. Lord Mark Kerr, Lieutenant-general. Sir John Cope. Lieutenant-general Hawley. Right Hon. Lord Tyrawley. Lieutenant-general St. Clair. Lieutenant-general Bragge. Lieutenant general Irwin. Lieutenant general St. George. Major-general Bligh, and Major-general De Grangues, Major-generals.

Oct. 5. Some private Letters from France mention a ſingular Accident that has lately happen'd near the Town of Rhetel Mazarin, where, by a Hurricane, or Whirlwind, the Effects of which did not extend above Half a League, a prodigious Quantity of Crows were killed; and ſuch of thoſe as eſcap'd with Life, were found to be ſtone Blind. The Farmers in the Neighbourhood, who were extremely annoyed by theſe devouring Creatures, were not a little pleaſed with this unexpected Deliverance.

A few Days ago a Woman of the Town, who was going to quit her Lodgings, had her Stays ſtopp'd by the old Bawd for Debt; upon which the Girl's Mother ſerv'd her with a Warrant, and had her before the Sitting Alderman at Guildhall, who order'd her to return the Stays, and committed her for a Month to Bridewell. But the old Bawd ſwore a Debt againſt the Girl for Board-Wages, and having Bailiffs provided, they ſeized upon her as ſhe was coming out of Guildhall; and while the old Sinner went to Bridewell, the young one was conducted to the Compter.

From the Gentleman's Magazine for Auguſt, 1751.

ON Tueſday, the 20th Inſtant, was tried at Kingſton Aſſizes, James Welſh and Thomas Jones, for the Murder of Sarah Green, on the 23d of July 1748, for which Murder Richard Coleman was wrongfully hang'd, as has been mentioned in the Papers. The principal Witneſs againſt the Priſoners was James Nichols, who ſaid, That on the 23d of July, 1748, the Priſoners and himſelf had been drinking together from ſix in the Evening 'til ten at Night; that coming along Kennington-Lane, he being foremoſt, overtook the Deceaſed, and knowing her, aſk'd her to drink, to which ſhe conſented, and they went to the King's Head at Kennington, and called for a Pint of Beer; that while they were drinking it, the Priſoners came in, called for a Quartern of Gin, drank it, and went away, and he and the Deceaſed immediately followed; that when they came to Newington Church-walk, the Priſoners forced the Deceaſed from him, (and then gives in Evidence an Account of the moſt barbarous Rape, committed by the Priſoners, on the ſaid Deceaſed, which occaſioned her Death:)----Nichols being aſk'd, if he had heard of one Coleman being try'd and execfor that Fact, his Anſwer was, He knew it; but Coleman was innocent. He was then aſk'd, Why he did not make known the Truth Time enough to ſave an innocent Man's Life? He ſaid, the Priſoners had been his School-fellows, and he had not diſcovered it now, if they had not been taken up. On this, and other corroborating Evidence, the Priſoners were found Guilty.

The Manner of this horrid Scene being brought to Light, is very remarkable.---One James Buſh, being intimate with Welſh, went one Sunday a walking with him, and among other Diſcourſe, an Argument aroſe about People that were hang'd wrongfully. Welſh ſaid, Coleman was hang'd wrongfully, he was ſure; for Tom. Jones, Jemmy Nichols and himſelf did the Fact, and in coming Home, ſhew'd Buſh the two Trees between which they committed the ſame.---Some Months after this, Buſh meeting his Father upon London-Bridge, ſaid to him, Father, I have not been well, and I fear I ſhall die; I have ſomething to diſcloſe to you: Coleman was hang'd wrongfully.---The old Man was much ſurprized, and anxious to know the Particulars, and took his Son to a publick Houſe, where he was informed of all Welſh had ſaid.---On which he went immediately in ſearch for Jones, found him, and charg'd him with the Fact. He trembled, and ſaid, What ſignifies it,---the Man is hang'd, and the Woman dead,---and No-body can hurt us.---But afterwards recollecting himſelf, he added, We were concerned with a Woman, but who can tell that was the Woman Coleman died for?--- This, however, furniſh'd Grounds of Suſpicion, and was the Means of bringing theſe unnatural Villains to Juſtice.

On Friday the 6th of September, Welſh and Jones, condemned for the Murder of Sarah Green above mentioned; Keys for the Highway, and Bryant for a Robbery in Batterſea Fields, were carried in one Cart, from the New Goal in Southwark, to Kennington-Common, and there executed, purſuant to their Sentences, amidſt as great a Concourſe of People as ever were aſſembled together on ſuch an Occaſion. They, in general, behav'd in a penitent Manner; the two former confeſſed being concerned in the Affair of Sarah Green, ſo far as related to the Rape, but ſaid that they were not the Cauſe of her Death, but that it was N----s that uſed her in the barbarous Manner which occaſioned it. They both declared Mr. Coleman's Innocence, who had ſuffered for that Murder: And that he was ſo far from being with them at that Time, that they did not ſo much as know him; but that Nichols went by the Name of Coleman. And Welſh wrote a Letter to the ſame Purpoſe, to Coleman's Brother, the Morning of their Execution. Their Bodies were not hung in Chains, but delivered to their Friends.

We ſhall give our Readers Mr. Coleman's ſolemn Declaration concerning his Innocence of the Murder of Sarah Green, delivered to the Rev. Mr. Wilſon, at the Place of his Execution, in the Year 1748; which was as follows:

"THE dreadful Sentence paſſed upon me, I ſhall meet with Chearfulneſs, being in no Degree conſcious of the leaſt Guilt of that moſt inhuman, and moſt unnatural Crime that I have been found guilty of. I am very ſenſible that it is not in my Power to make the incredulous World believe me innocent. I leave the following Account with Mr. Wilſon, who I am greatly obliged to, and return my hearty Thanks for the comfortable Relief I have received from him, in a Preparation for a future State of Bliſs; and I hope he will cauſe it to be publiſhed for my Satisfaction, that it may paſs the impartial Examination of all Perſons. Namely, on the 23d of July, 1748. I went, &c. &c.---(Here follows a long and circumſtantial Relation of the ſeveral Companies he was in, on the Day of the Murder; as alſo ſome Reflections on the Evidence againſt him, on his Trial)--- I ſhall anſwer before the Tribunal of Chriſt, at the dreadful Day of Judgment, that the foregoing Account, to the beſt of my Knowledge and Belief, is the Truth, and nothing but the Truth----I do alſo moſt ſolemnly proteſt, That I am not in any Degree guilty of that moſt inhuman Murder of Sarah Green, neither was I at Newington, or in Kennington-Lane, that Night that the cruel Fact was committed on her. This I declare as a dying Man; and I ſincerely believe (as the Rev. Mr. Wilſon told me ſeveral Times) if I was directly or indirectly guilty of that Murder, and go out of the World with denying it, that eternal Damnation would be my Portion. It is an inexpreſſible Pleaſure to me, that I am ſo ſoon to leave this very wicked World; and I hope that God Almighty, of his infinite Mercy and Goodneſs, will, thro' the Merits and Interceſſion of my bleſſed Redeemer, his only Son, our Saviour Jeſus Chriſt, pardon all my Sins, and receive my Soul to eternal Happineſs. There is Nothing that gives me ſo much Concern, as the Diſtreſs I leave my poor Wife and two Infants in. She has been very good to me under my unhappy Misfortunes; and ſo have my poor afflicted Brothers. I hope the Almighty will be the Guardian of my Wife and Children; and that all good Chriſtian People will commiſerate their unhappy State. I do moſt heartily deſire all and every one, whom I have offended, that they would vouchſafe to forgive me; and I do freely and heartily forgive my Proſecutors, and all the World, wherein any hath offended me, or done me any manner of Injury whatſoever, even as I deſire to be forgiven of God, and to be abſolved from my Sins, thro' the Merits of my bleſſed Redeemer."----

I am ſorry to ſay (ſays the Author of the Gentleman's Magazine) his Concern for his Family was too juſtly grounded; for the World believing the Father guilty, neglected the Children; and if we are rightly informed, they periſhed for want. The Mother, drove to Deſpair, is an Object of real Charity.

From a Dublin Paper, of the 25th of October, juſt come to hand, we have the following Advices.

WHITEHALL, October 13

THIS Day an Expreſs arrived at his Grace the Duke of Newcaſtle's Office, from Solomon Dayrolle, Eſq; his Majeſty's Reſident to the States-General of the United Provinces, with an Account, That on Friday the 11th Inſtant, about Two a Clock in the Morning, his moſt Serene Highneſs the Prince of Orange, Hereditary Stadtholder, Captain General and Admiral General of the United Provinces of the Low Countries, died after a very ſhort Illneſs. And the ſame Day the States General, and alſo the States of Holland, ſent a Deputation with Compliments of Condolance to the Princeſs Royal upon this melancholy Event, and to adminiſter to her Royal Highneſs the Oaths as Governante and Guardian to the young Prince Stadtholder her Son.

Lord Chamberlain's Office, October 15. The Court goes into Mourning on Sunday next, the 20th Inſtant, for his late moſt Serene Highneſs the Prince of Orange, Hereditary Stadtholder, Captain General and Admiral General of the United Provinces of the Low Countries, viz.

The Ladies to wear black Bombazeen, plain Muſlin, or long Lawn Linnen, Crape Hoods, Shammy Shoes and Gloves, and Crape Fans.

Undreſſed, dark Norwich Crape.

The Men to wear black Cloth, without Buttons on the Sleeves or Pockets, plain Muſlin or long Lawn Cravats and Weepers, Shammy Shoes and Gloves, Crape Hatbands, and black Swords and Buckles.

Undreſſed, dark grey Frocks.

LONDON.

October 19. By the Act of Settlement on the Death of the late Prince of Orange, the Duke of Brunſwick Wolfenbuttle is to act as Captain General and Lord High Admiral, during the preſent Prince's Minority.

Tueſday the laſt Parcel of Shetland Herrings, which were caught this Seaſon, were ſold at the Royal Exchange Coffee-Houſe, at about 30 s. per Barrel, upon an Avarage. It was expected that [illegible]ds of 500 Barrels of Yarmouth Herrings would arrive in [illegible]ver [illegible]ight, which will be ſold in a few Days.

Amongſt other good Things expected to be done next Seſſions of Parliament, it is ſaid that the Land Tax will be reduced One Shilling in the Pound, notwithſtanding which a Fund will be found for leſſening the National Debts.

Yeſterday arrived an Expreſs from Holland, which brought an Account, that the Courier that was diſpatched to notify the Death of his Serene Highneſs the Prince of Orange, was met on the Road by another Courier, who was coming to the Prince of Orange's Court, to acquaint them of the Death of the Dowager Princeſs of Orange, the Stadtholder's Mother.

The firſt Mourning for the Prince of Orange will end on Sunday the firſt of December, and the Birth-Day of his Majeſty will be kept on Thurſday the fifth following.

Letters from Holland by the laſt Dutch Mail, dated Oct. 21. N. S. pretended that they had Advice at Amſterdam of the Return of the Squadron that ſailed from Breſt in July laſt, but ſeem to be deficient in aſcertaining the Fact, as they don't mention the Date of its Arrival at Breſt: Upon which it is obſervable, that the Letters by Yeſterday's French Mail, which are dated the 23d, are quite ſilent on this Head, tho' they ought to have earlier Intelligence of it than the Dutch can poſſibly have. So that one may ſtill be allowed to ſuppoſe that Squadron may be gone to the Eaſt Indies, as it is certain that the two Frigates which were detached from it, to take on board a conſiderable Sum at Cadiz, belonging to the French India Company, were ſerved the Moment they arrived, the Money having been kept in Readineſs to be ſhipp'd off at an Hour's Warning.----Was this Money taken up in ſuch a Hurry only to be brought to Breſt?

According to ſome private Letters from Paris, when Complaint was lately made about a certain Nobleman ſent thither in the Character of a Pl--n--p- y, the Anſwer given in the King's Name was, That his P-----n M-----y being a very wiſe P------ce, he could not but approve of any Man he judged properly qualified to manage his Affairs.

NEW-YORK, January 20.

Laſt Week arrived here Capt. Sheldon, from Tarpaulin-Cove, who informs us, that one Capt. Jefferſon, of Rhode-Iſland, was arrived there Paſſenger in a Brig from Jamaica, who acquainted him, that 14 Sail of Engliſh Veſſels from the Bay of Honduras, himſelf being one, had been caſt away on the Iſland of Cuba, in the Time of the late Hurricane;---that moſt of the Men had ſaved their Lives, and got to the Havanna; amongſt the reſt, he remembers to have heard of the Veſſels of Capt. Shourt, and Capt. M'Connell, of New-York, the latter of which he learnt had been killed by his Men at Sea, before he was caſt away; and that it had been diſcovered at the Havanna, where the Villains had been apprehended: He thinks there was another New-York Veſſel, but would not be certain;---as he ſaw but few of the Engliſh, before he got a Paſſage to Jamaica.

CUSTOM-HOUSE, NEW-YORK, ENTRED INWARDS.

Snow Fanny, Elias Quereau, from St. Chriſtophers and Nevis.

Outwards. Sloop Sarah and Elizabeth, David Griffith, for Leeward Iſlands. Snow Charming Nancy, William Mallam, for Antigua. Sloop Hunter Morris, John Stevenſon, for Coracoa. Brig. Jolly, Samuel Lawrence, jun. for Liſbon.

Cleared. Sloop Rebecca and Deborah, Robert Lackey, to St. Chriſtophers. Sloop Mary, Nicholas Burger, to Jamaica. Brig. Warren, John M'Cracken, to Belfaſt.

PHILADELPHIA, January 28.

On the ſixth Inſtant a Court of Oyer and Terminer was held at Dover, in Kent County, when Archibald Cunningham, and Alice, his Wife, were indicted and found guilty of the barbarous Murder of Eleanor Gollohar, on the 25th of December laſt, in Duck-Creek Hundred. A particular Account of this cruel Affair would have been inſerted; but it was perpetrated in ſuch a ſhocking Manner, that a Regard to Decency forbids our deſcribing it. Richard Price was alſo indicted, and found guilty of ſtealing a Mare, the property of Simon Hirons, of Motherkill Hundred. They all received Sentence of Death; but Price is ſince reprieved, and Cunningham and his Wife are ordered to be executed on the 8th of next Month.

From the Capes there is Advice of the Arrival there of a Veſſel from Liverpool, but laſt from Antigua.

Monday next the General Aſſembly of this Province meets here.

NOtice is hereby given to all perſons that intend to convey themſelves, goods, wares or merchandize, from Philadelphia to New-York, or from New-York to Philadelphia: That there will be a ſtage-boat, well fitted, and kept by Patrick Cowan, living in Burlington, that will attend every Tueſday in every week, at the Crooked Billet Wharff, in Philadelphia, for the ſame buſineſs, and will proceed the ſame day up to Burlington, wind and weather permitting. And on Wedneſday morning a ſtage waggon, with a good arning, kept by Fretwell Wright, at the Blue Anchor, in Burlington, and John Predmore, at Cramberry, and James Wilſon, at Amboy Ferry; will proceed to Obadiah Ayrs's, Inn-keeper at Amboy Ferry; where good entertainment for man and horſe is, and will be kept. And on Thurſday a ſtage paſſage-boat, with a fine commodious cabbin, fitted with a tea-table, and ſundry other conveniencies, kept by Matthias Iſelſtine, will be ready to receive the paſſengers or goods, and proceed directly to New-York, and give her attendance at Whitehall Battery. If Paſſengers are ready at the places on ſtage days, 'tis believ'd they will go ſooner from Philadelphia to New-York, by 24 or 30 hours, than by any other way that has been made uſe of by ſtage, the boat from Philadelphia to Burlington ſeldom being above four hours on her paſſage, and often but two or three hours. All perſons on or near the road, that have buſineſs, may have it done with due care and attendance. The price of paſſengers or goods, that ſhall come to Burlington, will be no more per mile than from Bordentown. On Sundays or Mondays in any week, paſſengers trading up and down the river, or any other manner, whoſe waggon hire ſhall amount to Sixteen Shillings, or upwards, ſhall, upon the firſt notice, have a waggon, and be tranſported to the ſtage boat, which will be ready to receive them at the landing, and is the moſt handy and convenient of any thereabouts, there being a good wharff to ſtep into the boat. The boat, for the firſt time, will begin to attend at the Crooked Billet on Tueſday, the 13th day of Auguſt, 1751, and the waggon will proceed the day following. Further, if the ice, or any thing elſe, ſhould at any time prevent the paſſage boat from going from Burlington to Philadelphia, the ſtage waggon will, if requir'd, proceed from Burlington to Cooper's Ferry. FRETWELL WRIGHT, JOHN PREDMORE, JAMES WILSON, PATRICK COWAN.
